

BANJARMASIN

INDONESIA

Indonesia is a densely populated archipelago located off mainland Southeast Asia. The national motto, "Unity in diversity," gives language to the extraordinary ethnic makeup of the islands with over 300 ethnic groups and more than 600 languages. In recent years, persecution has increased significantly in the nation. Terrorist cells are continuing to sprout up. Yet, amid trial, the church of Indonesia has an opportunity to stand firm and share the love of God that cannot be measured and the Gospel that cannot be silenced. Banjarmasin is the capital of South Kalimantan. The Banjar people predominantly inhabit the region of South Kalimantan. The Banjar are one of the largest frontier people groups in Southeast Asia.
