Beijing is the capital city of the People's Republic of China. It is the world's most populous capital city with over 21 million residents.

The Han Chinese People

The Han represents the majority of China's people and in many senses dictate what is and is not considered Chinese. The Han is the majority ethnic group in China, making up 92% of the mainland's population. They also constitute the world's largest ethnic group, with 18% of all people on earth being Han.

The Han take their name from the Han dynasty, which, though not the dynasty to first unite China, represented a halcyon era of politics and art. It was also the dynasty during which China's most influential historian lived and wrote, and the dynasty that would continue to be romanticized through literature for thousands of years to come.

Han people are adherents of a wide variety of religious traditions. Many are Buddhists, others follow Confucius, or are Taoist. However there are many Catholics and Christians both in China and the 53 countries around the world with a Han Chinese population.

Ways To Pray:

- Pray for 50 new Christ-exalting multiplying house churches amongst the people groups of Beijing.
- Pray for a Bible in Chinese sign language and Chinese Jinyu.
- Pray for John 17 oneness among the house church leaders in Beijing.
- Pray for the hundreds of millions of rural dwellers that have relocated to China's urban centers like Beijing. Many millions cannot support their families and end up in cities without basic social services or educational opportunities, which creates overcrowding and unemployment.
- Pray for God to restrain the lawlessness and stronghold of abortion (13 million abortions every year in China).
